Land sales of John Dodge all of which (except, possibly, for the Illinois sales as they are not listed yet in the Land Bureau Sales but are listed in Illinois as Federal Sales may be the same) were under the Cash Entry Act of April 24, 1820. There were several John Dodges but others used initials with their name for a second name. The John Dodge who purchased in Kenosha was John Dodge, son of Ozias Dodge and Elizabeth Bullen and a descendant of William Dodge . He was counted there in the census in 1850 but there was no other mention of him in the area.

Lester Van Alstine's book says that Emaline Dodge Van Alstine was buried in her parents plot but that is not so. The cemetery records state that the grave of Emaline is there but her parents are not there.

Orlando Foster, John's son-in-law by another daughter, was an attorney who dealt in land. Orlando purchased in the same sale in Kenosha that John Dodge did, but no other purchases of his can be found. Orlando Foster probably handled land for John Dodge.

David Crosit, another son-in-law, also purchased land under the Cash Entry Act of 1820 but not on the same date that John Dodge and Orlando Foster purchased land. Three other Dodge's purchased on the same date - Rufus, Jeremiah, and Joseph. John Dodge was born abt 1786. He never showed up in another census but his wife did - she was living with the Orlando Foster family.
